

To the Air Quality Permit Coordinator October 14, 2013
DEQ Northwest Region

The arguably criminal poisoning of air by Intel manufacturing historically calls for new enforceable monitoring.

Our daughter has her office within half a mile of the Intel Campus but regardless, the fallout has a huge exposure to a large population. The unnecessary depreciation on the environment and quality of life is totally unacceptable.

Continuous monitoring of effluent with appropriate recording, alarming, and public reporting would seem to be the only responsible way forward.
